PROCLAMATION for pardoning DESERTERS

War-Office, September 22, 1796.

WHEREAS it has been repreſented to the King, That there are at this Time ſeveral Deſerters from the different Regular Corps in His Majeſty's Land Service, who might be induced to return to their Duty by an Offer of His Majeſty's gracious Pardon, and that ſuch an Inſtance of his Royal Clemency would have a due Influence upon their future Behaviour;

Exeter.
Wincheſter.
Marlborough.
Hereford.
Bedford.
Bury.
Nottingham.
Birmingham.
Shrewſbury.
Mancheſter.
Leeds.
York.
Kendal.
Durham.
Edinburgh.
Glaſgow.
Aberdeen.
Inverneſs.

His Majeſty has been graciouſly pleaſed, by his Order in Council, to grant his free Pardon to all Deſerters from his Regular Land Forces, who ſhall ſurrender themſelves, on or before the 10th Day of November next, to any of the Superintending Field Officers of the Recruiting Service, whoſe Stations are mentioned in the Margin hereof, or to the Inſpector-General of the Recruiting Service at Chatham Barracks.

Such Deſerters, if able-bodied Men and fit for Service, ſhall be appointed to ſuch Regiments as His Majeſty may be pleaſed to command; and ſhall not be liable to be claimed by any other Corps to which they may formerly have belonged.

And

And whereas many of the ſaid Deſerters may have enliſted in other Regular Corps, and are now ſerving therein, His Majeſty is graciouſly pleaſed to extend to ſuch Deſerters the Benefit of this Pardon; and to direct that they ſhall continue to ſerve in the Corps wherein they now are, without being under the Neceſſity of declaring themſelves Deſerters, in order to entitle them to the Benefit of this Pardon; and they ſhall not be liable, at any future Time, to be claimed by the Regiments in which they formerly ſerved: But this Clauſe is not to extend to Deſerters enliſted by the Corps raiſing Recruits for general Service; which Deſerters are only to be entitled to their Pardon on declaring themſelves at Chatham Barracks to be ſuch, and being there transferred to ſome eſtabliſhed Regiment.

And whereas ſeveral of the ſaid Deſerters have been apprehended, and are now in Gaol, or in Regimental Cuſtody, His Majeſty is likewiſe pleaſed to grant them his free Pardon, of which they are to have the Benefit upon their Arrival under Eſcort at Chatham Barracks, where they will be diſpoſed of in the Manner above-mentioned.

Any Soldier who may deſert after theſe His Majeſty's gracious Intentions are made public, ſhall not be included in the above Pardon, but be proceeded againſt with the utmoſt Severity.

By His Majeſty's Command,

W. WINDHAM.

St. James's, October 26, 1796.

THIS Day the Right Honorable the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, Sheriffs and Common Council of the City of London, waited upon His Majeſty, (being introduced by the Lord in Waiting) with the following Addreſs, which was read by Sir John William Roſe, Knt. the Recorder.

To the KING's Moſt Excellent Majeſty,

The humble Addreſs of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen and Commons of the City of London, in Common Council aſſembled.

Moſt Gracious Sovereign,

WE, your Majeſty's moſt dutiful and loyal Subjects, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen and Commons of the City of London, in Common Council aſſembled, at all Times deeply ſenſible of the paternal Regard and Solicitude manifeſted by your Majeſty for the Welfare of your People, and the Security of the Honor and Proſperity of the Britiſh Empire, are at this Time peculiarly deſirous to expreſs our Sentiments of Gratitude for your moſt gracious Communication to both Houſes of Parliament, in the preſent moſt important Conjuncture of Affairs.

Conſcious as we are that no Endeavours for ſetting on Foot Negotiations to reſtore Peace to Europe, and to ſecure for the future the general Tranquillity, have been omitted on the Part of your Majeſty, it is with the moſt heartfelt Satisfaction that we underſtand your Majeſty's moſt gracious Intention is to ſend immediately a Perſon to Paris, with full Powers to treat for this Object; and we are impreſſed with the moſt ſanguine Hopes that the Succeſs of that Meaſure may ſecure to Britain, and her Allies, a juſt, honorable and ſolid Peace.

At the ſame Time, moſt gracious Sire, much as we deſire ſo great a Bleſſing, and feelingly as we deplore the calamitous Means which have hitherto retarded it's Attainment, yet, as Britons, we are not ſo unmindful of the Bleſſings we really enjoy in this free and happy Country, under the glorious Conſtitution handed down to us by our Anceſtors, nor ſo careleſs of the Conſequences of endangering it by too fatal a Security, as to deny, that ſhould the Iſſue of the Negotiation be unfavourable, and preclude the Poſſibility of reſtoring Peace at once honorable and ſubſtantial, it is the united Determination of your Majeſty's faithful Citizens of London to ſupport and aſſiſt your Majeſty in oppoſing, with increaſed Activity and Vigour, the farther Efforts with which the Country may have to contend.

We ſincerely congratulate your Majeſty on the general Attachment of your People to the Britiſh Conſtitution, and on the Energy and Wiſdom of the Laws, which have repreſſed the Endeavours of thoſe who wiſhed to introduce Anarchy and Confuſion into the Land.

We humbly beg Leave to renew our Aſſurances of Loyalty to your Majeſty's Perſon and Government, and pray that the great Diſpoſer of all Events will long ſecure to your Majeſty the happy and firm Poſſeſſion of the illuſtrious Crown of theſe Realms, and the unſhaken Throne of your People's Hearts.

Signed by Order of Court,

WILLIAM RIX.

To which Addreſs His Majeſty was pleaſed to return the following moſt gracious Anſwer:

I Thank you for theſe freſh and cordial Aſſurances of your Attachment to My Perſon and Government.

Should My Endeavours for the Reſtoration of general Peace, on juſt and honourable Terms, not meet with Succeſs, I confidently truſt that the Spirit and Firmneſs of My Councils, ſupported by the Bravery of My Fleets and Armies, and the united Efforts of My People, will, under the Bleſſing of Providence, enable Me to maintain the Safety, Honour and Intereſts of My Kingdoms againſt all Attempts of the Enemy.

My loyal City of London may rely upon My unremitting Attention to it's Welfare and Happineſs.

They were all received very graciouſly, and had the Honor to kiſs His Majeſty's Hand.

After which His Majeſty was pleaſed to confer the Honor of Knighthood on Stephen Langſton, Eſq; Alderman and Sheriff, and William Staines, Eſq; Alderman and Sheriff.

Downing-Street, October 29, 1796.

DISPATCHES, of which the following are Copies, have been received from Robert Craufurd, Eſq; by the Right Honorable Lord Grenville, His Majeſty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

Head-Quarters of the Archduke Charles of Auſtria, Betzenſtein, September 16, 1796.

MY LORD,

THE great Diſtance of the Prince of Condé's Corps from the Archduke's Head Quarters, and other Circumſtances, have prevented my being able till now to have the Honor of tranſmitting to your Lordſhip the Details of an Affair, which, (though it was not of ſufficient Importance to have any material Influence on the general Operations of the Army, and is now of too old a Date to be intereſting as an Article of Intelligence) reflects ſo much Honor on the Prince of Condé and his Corps, that it would be an Act of Injuſtice to thoſe brave and unfortunate Perſons, were your Lordſhip to be left uninformed of the Particulars of their very gallant Conduct. Lieutenant-Colonel Craufurd has therefore deſired me, though thus late, to give your Lordſhip an Account of this Action, and I have taken it from the moſt authentic Sources.

The Number of Troops left for the Defence of the Country between the Danube and the Tyrol in the Beginning of laſt Month was ſo ſmall, that the

Prince

Prince of Condé's Corps was divided on an extremely extensive Line, and considerably above One Half of it was detached from under the immediate Command of His Serene Highness.

On the 11th of August the Prince was posted in Front of Mindelheim, having Two Advanced Corps on the Guntz; that of the Right near Erckheim, commanded by the Duke D'Enghien; that of the Left at Southeim, under the Orders of General Viomenil. He had also sent a Detachment of Cavalry to Loppenhausen, to cover his Right, or rather to observe the Enemy's Movements in that Quarter, and another on the Left to Guntzburg, on the Road between Mindelheim and Kempton; the Detachment at Guntzburg communicated with the Corps at Kempten.

On the 12th the Enemy attacked the Duke D'Enghien's Corps, and were repulsed; but the Superiority of their Numbers enabled them to succeed in turning General Viomenil's Left, and they thereby obliged both these Corps to retire to the Prince of Condé's Position. The Enemy now advanced in great Force close to His Serene Highness's Front, established themselves in the Wood and Village of Kamlach, and appeared to intend a decisive Attack, which the Prince prepared to resist. He placed the Center of his Infantry on the Heights behind the Villages of Upper and Lower Aurbach, both of which he occupied; his Cavalry was judiciously concealed from the Enemy's View, and sheltered from the Cannonade, but ready to advance whenever an Opportunity occurred for it to act. The Duke D'Enghien's Corps was posted on the Heights in Front of the Right of the Position, and General Viomenil in the same Manner on the Left, occupying the Road that leads from Southeim to Mindleheim: The Reserve was posted on the Heights in Front of Mindleheim, and a Detachment of between Five and Six Hundred Men in the Valley of Mindelheim, in such a Manner as to prevent the Enemy's coming quite round the Left into the Rear of the Position, which otherwise was much to be apprehended from the great Superiority of their Numbers, and from the Country being extremely woody.

As the Republicans did not venture to advance to the Attack across the Plain which separates the Wood of Kamlach from the Villages of Upper and Lower Aurbach, the Remainder of the Day of the 12th passed in a distant and unimportant Musquetry. In the Evening, however, the Prince received repeated and positive Information, from his reconnoitring Parties and Patroles, that strong Columns of the Enemy were advancing on his Right and Left. He therefore judged that his only Chance of maintaining his Position was by beating the Corps in his Front, before those which were moving towards his Flanks could approach near enough to annoy him; and though His Serene Highness knew he should have to do with infinitely superior Numbers, he boldly determined on the Attack, the Dispositions for which were nearly as follows:

The Right, under the Duke D'Enghien, was ordered to carry the Village of Lower Kamlach, and to penetrate through the Wood, if possible, towards Erckheim. The Center, in Two Columns, was to attack the Enemy in or near the Village of Upper Kamlach; and the Left, under General Viomenil, to advance on the great Road to Southeim.

The Inferiority of his Force, and the Apprehension of the Enemy's receiving still further Reinforcements, determined the Prince to march against them in the Night of the 12th, to the Battalions of Infanterie Noble, (composed entirely of Gentlemen, formerly Officers in the French Service, and great Numbers of whom are Chevaliers de St. Louis) began their Attack on Upper Kamlach. Having received the Fire of a Battalion that occupied the Gardens, they immediately pursued it into the Village, and driving before them the Troops that attempted to defend Kamlach, they soon arrived at the Bridge, on the other Side of it. Behind this Bridge several Battalions of the Enemy were regularly formed, and the Fire now became so severe as to render the Success of a further Attack very uncertain; but the Infanterie Noble advanced against the Enemy with so much Impetuosity, that the latter gave Way, and retired into the Wood of Kamlach. Here these brave Gentlemen again attacked the Republicans, and, notwithstanding the great Superiority of Numbers, and consequent long and bloody Resistance, drove them quite out of the Woods, and on to the Heights behind it. In the mean Time the Prince of Condé was informed, that the Duke D'Enghien, after carrying the Village of Lower Kamlach, had found the Woods beyond it so strongly occupied as to prevent his advancing; that General Viomenil was similarly situated; and that the Enemy was attempting to come round the Flanks of the Infanterie Noble, and cut them off from the Bridge of Kamlach. His Serene Highness therefore found himself under the Necessity of ordering the different Corps to retreat to the Position. The Enemy followed to the Edge of the Wood of Kamlach, but did not come into the Plain. Arrived in the Position, the Prince found it totally impossible to remain there, without Risk of being entirely cut off, not only on Account of the numerous Reinforcements which he saw advancing to join the Enemy in his Front, but still more on Account of the strong Columns that were marching round both his Flanks. He therefore, on the Morning of the 13th, began his Retreat to Kildesingen, which was almost undisturbed, his Rear-Guard, commanded by the Duke d'Enghien, being followed only by the Enemy's Light Infantry.

The Prince's Loss in this Affair was about Seven Hundred Men, and a great Number of Officers killed and Three wounded. The Two Battalions of Infanterie Noble lost between Four and Five Hundred Gentlemen. The Enemy's Loss must also have been very considerable, and One Lieutenant-Colonel, and One Commandant of a Battalion, with about Sixty Men, were made Prisoners.

I have the Honor to be, &c.

Head Quarters of the Archduke Charles of Austria, Rastadt, October 6, 1796.

My Lord,

I Have the Honor to inform your Lordship, that General Moreau, (after being foiled in his Attempt to retreat from Ulm to Stutgard) having recrossed the Danube at Erbach on the 26th of September, marched upon Biberach and Schussenried.

On the 27th General La Tour advanced to the Iler, and Lieutenant-General Frolich to Leutkirch, the latter pushing forward his Advanced Guard to Wurtzach, where it took some Baggage and Prisoners.

On the 28th General La Tour advanced from the Iler to the Rottam in Two Columns; that of the Right

Right commanded by himſelf in Perſon, that of the Left by Lieutenant-General Mercantin.

On the 29th the Advanced Guard of General La Tour's Corps (under Major-General Baillet) drove the Enemy out of Biberach, and purſued them to Groth, where, after a ſevere Cannonade, it took it's Poſition. Major-General Klinling, with Three Battalions and Four Squadrons, (forming an intermediate Corps between Generals Mercantin and Frolich) advanced to Wolfseg, and General Frolich towards Wangen.

Whilſt theſe Operations were going on upon the Right of the Danube, Major-General Nauendorf was marching on the other Side of the River from Ulm towards Heckingen, in order to come into immediate Co-operation with Lieutenant General Petraſch, who, preceded by a Corps of ſeveral Battalions and Squadrons, under Major-General Meerfeld, was advancing towards Rothwell and Villingen.

By theſe Movements the Auſtrians became Maſters of the higheſt Parts of the Mountains of the Black Foreſt, where the Danube takes its Source, as well as thoſe Rivulets which, running Weſtwards to the Rhine, form the only Paſſes whereby an Army can deſcend from theſe Mountains to the Briſgaw. General Moreau had now, therefore, no other Alternative than either to attempt the dangerous Operations of attacking General Petraſch and Nauendorf, in order to gain the Val-d'Enfers, which deſcends into the Briſgaw by Freyburg, or to take his Retreat by the Foreſt Towns and the Territory of Swiſſerland; and finding himſelf at the ſame Time cloſely purſued by General La Tour, he determined, by a vigorous Attack, to endeavour to give the latter a Check, by which he might gain Time ſufficient to effect his Retreat without great Loſs. Accordingly, when, upon the 30th Inſtant, the Advanced Guards of Generals La Tour and Mercantin's Columns were in March towards Schuſſenried, they were attacked in the Neighbourhood of Steinhauſen, &c. by above Three Diviſions of Moreau's Army. An obſtinate Engagement took Place; but, as General La Tour moved forward with his whole Corps to ſupport his Advanced Guards, the Enemy was repulſed with very great Loſs, and the Auſtrians maintained their Poſition.

The Advanced Guard of General Mercantin's Column, conſiſting of a Detachment of the Prince of Condé's Corps, and commanded by the Duke D'Enghien, ſuffered principally in this Action. His Serene Highneſs's Conduct was very brilliant, and that of his whole Corps extremely gallant.

The Loſs of the Auſtrians amounted to about Six Hundred Men, Four Hundred and Twenty of whom were of the Duke D'Enghien's Corps.

From the Reports of the Spies, it appears that General Moreau has began to let Part of his Army defile without Arms through Switzerland.

His Royal Highneſs the Archduke marched on the 3d Inſtant from Schwetzingen to Graben, on the 4th to Carlſruhe, and Yeſterday to this Place.

Major-General the Prince of Lichtenſtein paſſed the Rhine on the 2d Inſtant at Manheim, and took Poſſeſſion of the Poſts of Gemerſheim, on the Fortification of which the Enemy have beſtowed ſo much Time and Labour. He is deſtroying the Works of this ſtrong Poſt, and has ſent Detachments as far as Weiſſenburg, which the Enemy abandoned.

Lieutenant-General Kray drove the Enemy out of Neuwied on the 29th; ſince which nothing material has happened between the Meyn and the Sieg.

I have the Honor to be, &c.

(Signed) ROBERT CRAUFURD.

The Lord Chancellor has appointed John Barrow, of Kendal in the County of Weſtmorland, Gent. to be a Maſter Extraordinary in the High Court of Chancery.

Commiſſion in the Norfolk Militia, ſigned by the Lord Lieutenant.

Eaſtern Regiment. John Brown, Gent. to be Lieutenant. Dated October 18, 1796.

Berne, October 1, 1796.

Large Bodies of the Enemy's Army continue to arrive every Day at Shaffouſen, where they are diſarmed and ſent, through the Cantons of Zurich, Berne, Soleure, to Baſle.

As yet we can learn nothing poſitive as to the Cauſe of this Deroute. It is certain that it has been conſiderable in ſome one Point, as the Fugitives continue to arrive every Day in ſtill greater Numbers. It is probable, alſo, that the Enemy has ſuffered in more Quarters than One, as it is obſerved that thoſe who arrive belong to ſo many different Corps, that they could not poſſibly have all ſerved together. It is difficult to learn any Thing from the Fugitives themſelves (ſo very confuſed is the Account they give) excepting the Fact, that a general Panick prevails throughout the whole Army; ſome of thoſe who have arrived in this diſorderly State having come even from General Moreau's Head Quarters, which they left at Ulm on the 21ſt.

It is difficult to learn with Certainty any Thing relating to the Number or Strength of the Peaſants under Arms in the Black Foreſt: All that we know is, that ſome ſmall Corps of Auſtrians have penetrated from the Side of Offenburg and Friburg, and are diſperſed among the Valleys and Woods about Doneſchingen, Tengen and Engen, and that the Alarm Bell is conſtantly ringing in every Village within Hearing of the Frontiers of this Country. The Republicans, however, are ſtill in Poſſeſſion of the Frickthall and the Three adjoining Foreſt Towns, Rhinfelden, Lauffenburg, and Seckingen. The Rage and Hatred of the Peaſants againſt the French paſſes all Belief, and is only equalled by the Terror they have inſpired in the Republican Army.

Turin, Sunday, October 16.

On the Night of Thurſday the 13th Inſtant His Sardinian Majeſty was ſeized with an Apoplectic Fit, which for ſome Time deprived him of Speech. The immediate Application of Bliſters and Bleeding brought His Majeſty to his Senſes the next Morning, and his Speech, though imperfectly, was recovered. During this Interval the Sacraments were adminiſtered. Towards the Evening alarming Symptoms returned, and Recourſe was had to a Third Bleeding in the Foot; which, not proving efficacious, the extreme Unction was adminiſtered.

His Majeſty lay ſpeechleſs, and with one Side wholly palſied, during the Night. At Five Yeſterday Morning he was pronounced to be à l'Agonie, and it was not imagined he could outlive the Day. His Majeſty, however, lingered till near Noon this Day, when he expired, as ſincerely lamented by all his Subjects as he had conſtantly lived beloved and reſpected by them, during a Reign of upwards of Twenty-three Years.

This melancholy Event has plunged all the Royal Family into the deepeſt Affliction.

Publiſhed by Authority of Parliament,

JOHN JAMES CATHERWOOD, Receiver of Corn Returns.

Downing-Street, October 29, 1796.

A Diſpatch, of which the following is a Copy, has been received from Captain Anſtruther by the Right Honorable Lord Grenville, His Majeſty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

Offenburg, October 13, 1796.

My Lord,

IN conſequence of the Affairs which had taken Place betwixt the Van-Guard of General La Tour's Army and the Rear of the Enemy on the 29th and 30th Ultimo, the Auſtrians had advanced to Groth and Steinhauſen, and the French maintained themſelves between Schuſſenried and the Feder See.

General Petraſch in the mean Time had taken Poſt betwixt the Sources of the Neker and the Danube, when he more effectually covered the Paſſes of the Black Foreſt, and his Parties inceſſantly harraſſed the Rear of the Enemy.

Preſſed in this Manner, General Moreau ſaw the extreme Danger to which his further Retreat was expoſed, and he reſolved to riſque a general Action as the only Means of extricating himſelf from the Difficulties by which he was ſurrounded. Early on the 2d, accordingly, the Left Wing of his Army croſſed the Danube at Riedlingen, and repaſſing it at Munderkingen turned and defeated the Corps which General La Tour had poſted betwixt the Feder See and the River.

As ſoon as General Moreau was aſſured of the Succeſs of his Left, he advanced from Schuſſenried to attack General La Tour in Front, and the Action was maintained during Six Hours with the utmoſt Obſtinacy. At length, however, General La Tour, finding that his Right Flank was totally uncovered, and that his Rear was menaced by the Progreſs of the Enemy, was obliged to abandon his Ground, and retire behind the Riſs, and ultimately behind the Rothambach. His Retreat was covered by the Corps of Condé with a Degree of Bravery and Steadineſs which reflects upon them the higheſt Honour.

I am ſorry to ſtate that the Loſs of the Auſtrians on this Occaſion has been very conſiderable.

On the 3d General La Tour occupied a Poſition behind the Rothambach, extending from Monchrod, by Erlenmoos, to Laupheim.

General Moreau, having thus ſucceeded in gaining ſufficient Freedom for the future Movements of his Retreat, re-commenced his March on the 5th following, with the Main Body of his Army, the Route of Stokach.

On the 6th Two Diviſions of his Left paſſed the Danube in ſeveral Columns between Redlingen and Sigmaringen; and, having re-aſſembled in the Neighbourhood of Veringen, proceeded upon Beuren and Friedingen, in a parallel Direction with the Main Body; and, in Proportion as it retreated, covered it's March from the Attempts which were to be apprehended from the Corps of Generals Nauendorf and Petraſch.

On the 7th General La Tour advanced to Burhan. General Moreau was in the Neighbourhood of Stockach, and had detached General Deſaix, with 300 Men, to occupy Engen.

On the 8th the Head Quarters of General La Tour were transferred to Oſtrach; thoſe of General Moreau to Stockach; and General Deſaix, advancing from Engen, drove in the Poſts of General Petraſch at Duttlingen, followed them towards Villingen, and took Poſt between Hohen, Emingen, and the great Road from Villingen to Schemberg.

Next Day, being joined by the Two Diviſions which had marched on the Left Bank of the Danube, he attacked General Petraſch at Schweningen, diſlodged him from thence and from Villingen, and gained Poſſeſſion of Rothweil; from whence, however, he was driven by a Detachment from the Corps of General Nauendorf at Hochingen. General Petraſch retreated upon Schillach, from whence he ſent a conſiderable Detachment to Friberg, to ſecure the Valley of Kinzig.

General La Tour in the mean Time had tranſferred his Head Quarters to Mæſkirchen; thoſe of General Moreau were at Engen.

The Head Quarters of His Royal Highneſs will be transferred Tomorrow to Mahlberg.

Lieutenant-General Hotze, who commands the Corps of Light Troops which paſſed the Rhine at Manheim on the 2d, has taken Poſt at Schweyenheim, from whence he has puſhed his Parties to Weiſſenbourg, Seltz, Haguenau, and almoſt to the Gates of Straſbourg, in one Direction, and to Kayſerſlautern and Baumholder in the other. They have levied Contributions, taken Hoſtages, and ſpread the utmoſt Conſternation throughout the Country.

So great are the Apprehenſions the Enemy entertains of this Corps, that the Troops, which had been left to watch Maintz, have been withdrawn to reinforce the Garriſon of Landau. General New, profiting of the Opportunity, has advanced to the Nahe with a Part of his Garriſon, and, after defeating ſeveral ſmall Corps, which the Enemy had left on that River, threatened to advance into the Hundſruck.

This Demonſtration has obliged General Bournonville to detach Four Diviſions from his Army on the Lower Rhine, to ſecure the Points which were menaced, and he is thus ſo conſiderably weakened, that, on the Appearance of a conſiderable reconnoitring Party ſent out by General Werneck, he abandoned his Poſition near Bernberg, and retired behind Mulheim.

I have the Honor to be, &c.

(Signed) ROBERT ANSTRUTHER,
Captain 3d Guards.
